The Harel Group
Summer Intern 2016

My experience with The Harel Group was very unique. For some people, they have the expectation of being treated like “an intern,” with menial tasks and busy work for an entire summer. With The Harel Group, this was quite the opposite. From day one I was able to jump right into the job with tons of responsibility in my hands. I was always treated like a valuable member of the team and it was truly an experience where I felt as if my opinion mattered. As a college student, I believe the opportunity to showcase your knowledge and ability is critical in developing your professional career. At The Harel Group, the entire summer is just that. Everything from research, to interpersonal skills, to time management, you have the opportunity to not only showcase, but also build on these skills. Working full-time while taking a class and working part-time for The Harel Group, I really learned to balance every free second that I had.

I had the opportunity to communicate with a vast amount of people from all over the country, and even all over the world. Dealing with various Project Management companies, I was exposed to the real business world. I learned that with solid communication skills, your ability to work remotely yet effectively increases significantly. Many situations I found myself dealing with potential Project Management suppliers on my own, further relaying the information I gathered to the rest of our team. This task required great responsibility, which allowed me to grow significantly throughout my time with The Harel Group. It was a sincere pleasure to work with such a driven, dynamic group of people.
